

Are you ready to...

rip out that thirsty lawn?...

save water in your yard while also saving money?...

Go waterwise!

Presented by...

University of California
Agriculture and Natural Resources

When: Saturday, April 25th
9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

Where: Calleguas MWD parking lot, 2100 Olsen Rd., Thousand Oaks, CA

Going waterwise doesn't mean you have to live with a brown, desertscape yard. Stop by to see a variety of colorful California native and other water thrifty plants that thrive in our area. Find the perfect combo of groundcover and shrubs for that shady side yard or a mix of flowering perennials for a sunny slope.

Need help?... Ventura County Master Gardeners will be available to offer horticultural advice and tips. Also, from 10:00 am to 12:00 pm, presentations will be offered on current drought conditions, selecting and incorporating native and drought tolerant plants in both new and existing landscapes, drip irrigation systems, and alternatives to thirsty turf grasses.

For further information & directions:

<http://ucanr.edu/sites/VCMG/> • calleguas.com • Calleguas MWD

Sponsored by...

Join the campaign...

Central Coast Nursery

