

City of Simi Valley
& Golden State Water Company
present

Free Water Conservation Landscape Workshops

The City of Simi Valley and Golden State Water Company will offer a free four-part water conservation program beginning Sept. 26. Classes will be held every other Saturday beginning Sept. 26, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Participants will learn:

- Landscape and garden design
- Benefits of using California friendly plants
- Sprinkler system basics
- Soil, fertilizer and watering requirements.

The first three classes on Sept. 26th, Oct. 10th and 24th will be at the Simi Valley Senior Center, 3900 Avenida Simi, and the Nov. 7th class will be at the Simi Valley Police Department, 3901 Alamo Street.

For workshop registration, please contact 583-6420 or E-mail WaterConservation@simivalley.org. Landscape training courses and rebate information are also available on-line, by visiting www.BeWaterWise.com.

Learn more about the City Water Conservation Program by visiting www.simivalley.org/waterconservationprogram. Golden State Water customers can visit www.gswater.com for rebate information and water conservation programs.

Golden State Water Company

A Subsidiary of American States Water Company